SECTION 3: OPEN SPACE PRESERVATION

Historically, the City of Mequon has placed a strong emphasis on preserving land as the community develops. Currently, the City has approximately 4 to 5 square miles of preserved open space, with about one-third being City and County parks and nature preserves.

Another way of looking at it is that there are 100 acres of open space preserved for every 1,000 residents. Those preserved lands do not include green areas around the schools and MATC, private country clubs, home and business setbacks, private soccer facilities and similar areas.

The City allows development of residential “cluster” lots (also known as conservation subdivisions) which reduces lot sizes and in turn preserves open space and/or environmentally sensitive areas. These developments also reduce the amount of infrastructure necessary to serve the new homes. The overall total number of lots permitted is NOT increased. Examples are shown below:
