City Holds Strategic Planning Workshop

On May 2, the Common Council and City staff gathered for a strategic planning workshop. Previously, the City had developed an inaugural strategic plan in 2022, and last Thursday's meeting was held for the purposes of pursuing and discussing key priorities contained within the plan, which runs through 2025. At the meeting, the Council received an update on progress that has been achieved relative to projects listed under the plan's five key focus areas, including: Capital Improvements, Customer Service, Financial Stewardship, Public Safety and Quality of Life. The workshop also contained a series of discussions regarding several of the City's existing facilities, including the Mequon Community Pool, the Public Safety Building on Buntrock Avenue and the East Side Fire Station along Port Washington Road. Additionally, participants also discussed options for financing these longer-term capital needs, as well alternatives to augment funding within both the City's General Fund and Sewer Utility, respectively. Throughout the day, a number of discussion points were identified for inclusion in a planned community survey that will be distributed to residents in mid-2025, in advance of efforts to develop the City's next strategic plan beginning in 2026.

Police Department Deploys New Speed Monitoring Signs

In late March, the Police Department purchased two solar-powered radar speed signs. After collaborating with the Department of Public Works, the speed signs were deployed within two subdivisions on April 12. The speed signs are nearing the end of their first deployment and will be relocated in the coming weeks. The response to the program has been notable, with a total of seven requests for the speed signs in the first month. Beyond the primary goal of enhancing road safety, the program has created a new avenue of communication between residents and the Police Department. More information can be found here.
